Information on Auto Acceleration

Auto Acceleration refers to state legislation that requires the automatic placement of students that meet or exceed standards into the next most rigorous level of coursework.

What does that mean?

Honors Biology

What is the difference between college preparatory, honors, and advanced placement?

College Preparatory Non-Weighted (4.0/4.0)	Honors Weighted (4.5/4.0)	Advanced Placement Weighted (5.0/4.0)
College Preparatory courses are taught at grade level and prepare students for access to early college experiences and post-secondary opportunities.	Honors courses are intended to offer a more challenging academic experience covering more material at an accelerated pace . These courses are designed for students who excel in certain subjects and are comfortable working independently .	Similar in rigor to honors courses. This course follows the College Board's guidelines for the subject's course. This course prepares student to take the advanced placement exam with the potential to earn college credit depending on the student's performance.

How will I know if my student has been auto accelerated?

You received an email from the District indicating subject areas your student has qualified for auto acceleration.

What if we don't want our student to automatically enroll in accelerated coursework?

After the student course selection process, parents will receive a course schedule verifier to review and confirm their student's course selections. A link to the opt-out form will be included in this communication.

What do I need to do now?

- Nothing, if you want your student advanced in all courses in which they qualify.
- We encourage students to work with their teachers, counselors, and parents/guardians to consider the impact of all available options.

What if my student wasn't automatically accelerated?

- Our goal is to support our students in finding balance among academics, activities, sports, and time with friends and family.
- We work hard to place each individual in the courses that best reflect their goals and aspirations.
- Through the course selection process, we consider grades, test scores, career pathways, and other future goals.
